Task 2: KPop Demon Hunters: Music, Magic, and Teamwork

Read the following text. For questions 1–6 choose the best answer (A, B, or C).

There is an example at the beginning (0).

Copy your answers (A, B, or C) on the Answer Sheet.

KPop Demon Hunters is an animated movie that mixes K-pop music, adventure, and Korean myths. It was released on Netflix in June 2025 and quickly became one of the most watched animated films of the year. The movie follows HUNTR/X, a famous K-pop girl group with three members – Rumi, Mira, and Zoey. On stage, they shine as singers and dancers. But when the lights go out, they use their secret powers to protect the world from dark and dangerous demons.

The film takes place in a bright futuristic version of Seoul, South Korea. The story begins when Rumi, the group's leader, discovers a mysterious power called Honmoon, a magical moon-light energy that connects humans and spirits, and prevents demons from entering the world. When evil spirits escape into the city, HUNTR/X must balance their busy lives as idols with their secret mission as heroes. Along the way, they learn that teamwork and trust are stronger than any magic.

The movie's creators said they wanted to show both the exciting and difficult sides of being a young artist. The girls in the film face problems that feel real – stage fright, online pressure, and fear of failure – but they also show courage and friendship. The combination of catchy pop songs, colourful animation, and fast-moving fight scenes makes the story fun and full of energy.

Critics have praised the film for its creativity and emotional messages. Many viewers said they loved how it shows that heroes can wear glitter and sing, and, especially, that bravery can come from kindness. The soundtrack includes songs written by real K-pop artists, giving fans music they can stream and dance to.

Fans around the world have shared clips, fan art, and dance covers online. KPop Demon Hunters is more than just an action story – it's a celebration of music, identity, and believing in yourself, proving that even pop stars can be true heroes.

Task 3: Students Are Depending on AI in New Ways

Read the text. For each gap (1–8), choose the answer that fits best, A, B, C or D.

There is an example at the beginning (0).

Copy your answers (A, B, C or D) on the Answer Sheet.

High school students are using artificial intelligence (AI) in personal and unexpected ways. Some teenagers now see AI as a friend or even as a romantic partner. This trend is becoming more (0) A, especially in schools where digital tools are already common.

A recent survey has revealed that nearly one in five students know someone who (1) _____ a romantic relationship with AI so far. Even more teenagers use it for companionship, turning to chatbots when they want to talk about their feelings. Experts say this shows how easily young people (2) _____ come to rely on technology for emotional support.

But there are also dangers. Schools with (3) _____ high level of AI use often face more risks, such as data leaks or deepfakes. In (4) _____, teachers report that AI sometimes produces inaccurate answers in class, leading to confusion. Some students even say these systems make them feel less connected (5) _____ their teachers.

The article warns that some teenagers treat AI as if it were a real person, (6) _____ can damage their mental health. Many do not fully understand the difference between humans and machines.

To solve (7) _____ current problems, the report recommends clear rules, better teacher preparation, and more open discussion about AI. Finally, it suggests that students should learn to think more (8) _____ about how AI shapes their lives in every sense and be prepared to really face the facts of its long-term overuse.

Task 4: The Dunning-Kruger Effect in Action

Read the text carefully. For each gap (1–8), write one word that fits best into the text. Use ONE word only in each gap. There is an example at the beginning (0). Copy your answers on the Answer Sheet.

In 1995, McArthur Wheeler robbed two banks (0) in Pittsburgh, USA. What made the robbery strange was not the crime (1) _____, but his idea of performing a “safe trick” which he thought could help him get (2) _____ with the crime.

He put some lemon juice all over his face, believing it would make him invisible (3) _____ security cameras at the bank. He thought lemon juice worked like invisible ink — you can’t see it until heat is applied — so he assumed cameras would not record (4) _____ own face. When the police went (5) _____ the camera tapes thoroughly and in great detail, Wheeler was clearly visible. He even looked at the cameras and smiled, sure that he was invisible. Within hours, the police arrested him. Wheeler was surprised and said, “But I wore the juice!”

Psychologists David Dunning and Justin Kruger became interested in the case. They studied why someone could believe something so wrong. In 1999 they published research about the Dunning–Kruger effect, a type of psychological bias. According to this effect, people who are not skilled in some area often overestimate (6) _____ abilities. They are unaware (7) _____ how little they know. Meanwhile, very skilled people sometimes underestimate (8) _____ and their own competence.

In the early 2010s, something changed (0) in the lives of teenagers. Rates of depression and anxiety grew quickly, and school results began to fall. At the same time, loneliness increased, and many young people became less willing to take risks. Psychologist Jonathan Haidt believes that the main reason was the arrival (1) _____ smartphones and social media. Before this, children had more freedom to play outside and meet friends, all of (2) _____ were activities helping them become stronger and more independent. But with smartphones, much of their daily life suddenly moved online.

According to Haidt, (3) _____ average, teenagers now spend between seven and nine hours a day on devices. This means there is less time (4) _____ sleep, exercise, or face-to-face contact with others. Online communication is faster, (5) _____ it is often more stressful, because it lacks natural body language.

Another danger is digital addiction. Some teens become addicted to video games or inappropriate content, (6) _____ many others use social media in unhealthy ways. Experts estimate that about one (7) _____ ten young people have serious problems with digital overuse.

Finally, Haidt warns that young people are less connected to older generations and culture. Instead, they spend their teenage years watching short videos, a practice which may damage their sense of identity and meaning.

There is hope, however, for the younger generations and their mental and physical health. Experts suggest it is possible to reverse the negative trend by limiting the use of smartphones and especially social media for users younger (8) _____ 16 years of age.
